The Hong Kong Marathon is a world-class athletic event that showcases Hong Kong's fascinating landmarks, organized by the Amateur Athletics Assn. The 2006 event covered Tsim Sha Tsui waterfront the spectacular Tsing Ma Bridge, back to West Kowloon and finished in Bauhinia Garden in Wanchai.

It is also the biggest participation sporting event in the territory, attracting over 40,000 runners in 2007. The 2007 marathon was held in February. The excitement, scenery and spectacular experience continues with the Half-Marathon, 30-km and 10-km races. Training in different levels is offered to people who would like to consider joining the marathon race.
