Kimberley Cole

Lynk Global

Global Head of Sales and Marketing

As the head of sales and marketing globally, Kimberley is focused on executing the mission to democratize access to knowledge and challenging the 'traditional' expert network business model by leveraging proprietary technology and the skills of a highly skilled and diverse team to match knowledge to drive better business decisions.

Cole has an extensive background in financial services and technology with over 25 years' experience as a recognized global sales and marketing leader. She held leadership positions for Thomson Reuters across Australia, the U.K., Singapore and Hong Kong. She rose to become one of the company's most senior female executives and part of its Asia Pacific executive team. In her most recent role as Head of Sales and Business Development for Asia at Thomson Reuters, Cole oversaw a team of over 160 sales specialists for the company's financial and risk business, worth US$6.5 billion. As an advocate for change, Cole is on the advisory council for women on boards, UK. She also co-founded and chaired Women in Finance in Asia, a forum for women in financial services with over 1,700 members and is the Chief and Founder of the Risky Women Network. Winner of the AmCham WOI Professional of the Year in 2015.
