Nancy Yang

Asian Charity Services

Co-Founder and former Executive Director

Nancy Yang is the Co-Founder and former Executive Director of Asian Charity Services. Over the last twelve years, ACS has provided pro bono business consulting and training to over 650 nonprofits in the Hong Kong community.

Prior to founding ACS, she was the Chief Strategy Officer with a mobile gaming company in Beijing, developing and distributing games for major Japanese and US gaming companies. The company was later sold to The Walt Disney Company. Before that, she worked as a management consultant with AT Kearney Hong Kong, specializing in business and organizational strategy for multinationals and family owned conglomerates operating in Asia Pacific. Nancy also worked as a finance associate with JMB Realty in Chicago, Illinois.

Nancy is actively involved in serving various community groups. She is a board director of Mother's Choice, a trustee of the Groton School, and a member of the Wharton Asia Executive Board.

She holds an MBA in Marketing from Kellogg School of Management, Northwestern University and a BS degree in Finance from The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. She is married and has three sons.
